Drug increases survival in dogs with cancer

February 13, 2017

Antonella Borgatti, D.V.M., M.S. and Copper Credit: University of Minnesota

A breakthrough trial at the University of Minnesota testing a new UMN-developed drug resulted in improved survival rates for dogs diagnosed with a cancer called hemangiosarcoma (HSA). The results were published today in the journal Molecular Cancer Therapeutics.

Vets Work to Declare Pet Obesity a Disease

Obesity has been declared a disease for humans. Will the veterinary world soon name obesity a disease for pets, too? By Ken Niedziela Published: 2017.01.09

A 2015 study conducted by the Association for Pet Obesity Prevention discovered that 54 percent of U.S. dogs were overweight or obese.

Is obesity a disease?

The American Medical Association officially recognized human obesity as such in 2013. In veterinary medicine, the answer is “no”—for now.

Training Tips

Molly Bredenberg shared:

Podcast | Wonderpupswww.wonderpupstraining.com

Using a modern, science-based approach to training and behavior, we help avid hobbyists and animal professionals become better trainers.

Why would you want to cause a mistake if the dog has never made it?

Connie Cleveland Training Tip

Wouldn't you rather cause the mistake when you are ready to respond than have it happen in the ring when you cannot respond? You never want to come out of the ring saying “He's never done that before!” <http://www.dogtrainersworkshop.com/connies-corner/mistake-dog-it/>

Members in Action

From Marge Bishop

Just an update on the Bishop kids..... There has been an addition to the pack, and her name is Pineview's Lone Star Queen Simba. Simba joins our family from the big state of Texas. Arriving by Alaska Airlines from Amarillo, on Friday, Feb 10th. She is a 2 year old Shepherd/Yellow Lab. A sweet girl that fits in just fine and dandy (and I might add she is golden, in color). She is currently enrolled in a class for her CGC and will move on to doing many other activities. Edison is taking Rally classes at the same time, on the same night, to give these two a chance to enter act and bond. Welcome to Oregon, Simba....
